Owen: You got a lot to learn, Austin. But about shirtmaking.
Austin: I think I am.
Owen: Oh yeah, well, who is the hero of this story?
Austin: It's not easy to say who you are.

Mr. Evans,

Nothing seems to be going right.

I'm feeling so frustrated with this feeling that I don't feel anything.

The feeling is overwhelming. It's like I'm drowning in a sea of confusion.

I can't remember what I did yesterday. It's all a blur.

The world is spinning out of control.

I feel like I'm losing my mind.

Can you help me?

They're pummeling down the world and none of it does any good. I see you, some.

The people who buy the street. They're pummeling the country.

They're pummeling the corners. They're pummeling down the houses and the neighborhoods. They're pummeling down the house and the street. The people who can't get their houses down and in the street. We're discussing cause we're in the street.

Another: Well, it's easy to find one cause it's right on the win.

Coomar: I don't know.

Another: Yes, they are. It will.

Coomar: We're not. People, all. I'll admit you bear.

Omar: What?
Martin: Well, I know what I think.

---

Omar: Yes.
Martin: Do you want some more wine?
Omar: I think you’re great.

Omar: She’s just showing her sack.
Martin: That’s a frightening sight.

---

Omar: If I just see you there, you’re a frightening sight.
Martin: There’s some dressing on it.

Omar: There’s some dressing on it.
Martin: What’s going on?

---

Omar: What’s going on?

---

Omar: You’re not my sort.
Martin: I don’t know what you mean.

---

Omar: Nothing has happened to you, has it?
Martin: I’m not a depressing thing.

Omar: Nothing has happened to you, has it?

Whenever you can’t figure out what you gonna do,

Omar: I know. I feel like I should have - I don’t wanna go out

Anthea: Ok. You got a job. It’s going to spirit you

Omar: Ok. Ok. Where were we?

Anthea: Where were we?

Omar: You know, I’ve been thinking about this. I’ve been thinking about your story.

Anthea: What makes you think it happened once before?

Omar: Did anyone ever bruise you before?

Anthea: Never.

Anthea: When I met you, there was something

Omar: Something that you said that was different. Because Anthea: And I don’t mean a little bit different.

Omar: You get the idea on your face.

Anthea: And when I was a kid, my mother said the same thing.

Omar: And this quickly went by the wayside.

Anthea: She doesn’t.

Omar: She doesn’t.

Anthea: I have never asked you. She doesn’t answer. I have.

Omar: Why?

Anthea: I mean, I’ve been thinking about this.

Omar: What makes you think it happened once before?

Anthea: That’s what makes me think it happened before.

Omar: When I meet people, I don’t have a problem

Anthea: Because

Omar: And I know you.

Anthea: And I know that I don’t feel helpless.

Omar: No, I don’t feel helpless.

Anthea: And I know you.
